

Additional Discussion Guidelines

Keeping in mind the previous discussion guidelines (which emphasize valuing the people around you while being judicious and genuine), I propose the following additional guidelines:

- When doing in-class group work and/or discussions, only go into so much detail on certain ideas in order not to be distracted by them, especially if our plans will change.
- Make an effort to communicate your thoughts and ideas exactly, instead of being overly polite, harshly critical or waiting for other people to offer a solution.